

AVPs
Audible Voice Phenomena

An "AVP" is simply a voice heard with your ears when there is no rational explanation for its origin.

They may be clear as a bell or a mumbling sound. We have heard many AVP that may be just a bunch of chatter to something that is clear as a bell. We have heard AVPs that have mimicked people we know, when in fact that person was not present.

Are they a figment of our imagination?

I do not believe they are. There have been times several people heard an AVP at the same time and at times were also picked up by our audio recording equipment.

So what are they?

I don't believe you will find a rational answer to this question. Obviously it must be some sort of energy because we heard it with our ears and recorded it with our equipment.